British Field Day Liberty Park Salt Lake City Saturday June 21

British Field Day (BFD) will be held at Liberty Park again this year. All British cars and bikes in any condition from 100-point restorations to works in progress or an old daily beater are welcome. All area British car/bike clubs are invited to participate. Call your fellow club members and get them to the event!

There will be a road course set up on a closed access road inside the park. It promises to be as noisy and challenging as in previous years!

Liberty Park has many amenities including one of the largest and best playgrounds in the city, the Tracy Aviary and a small amusement park with a Ferris wheel and merry-go-round. Even if your family doesn't share your passion for LBCs (little British cars), there will be plenty for them to do while you are getting your fix!

The Salt Lake Arts Academy, a public charter school with emphasis on the arts, will be providing volunteers to assist with the event so the organizers can have more time for some fun, too! Publicity for BFD is being handled by the Salt Lake Community Network. The SLCN is a non-profit neighborhood advocacy organization that functions as an umbrella group for Salt Lake City Community Councils. The community councils are neighborhood organizations that provide input from residents to city government.

Food will be California style with a bold Asian influence including Asian tacos, sliders, and salads plus chicken fingers with a plum-ginger sauce, a cheese quesadilla, and hot dogs for the kids, all at reasonable prices by CHOW HAUTE ASIAN CUISINE ON THE GO. The CHOW Truck will be inside the event.

Liberty Park is located between 500 East & 700 East and 900 South &

1300 South. The BFD event will be held in the northeast quadrant of the park. Enter off 1300 South and drive east and north about a quarter of the way around the park. You will see the event on the left.

Please help support the Salt Lake Arts Academy and SLCN by bringing your cars and bikes out to join in the fun. Registration starts at 8 AM. We hope to have most bikes and cars in place by 9 AM. We encourage folks displaying vehicles to try to stay until 3 PM, but if you can only make it for a couple of hours, that is fine, too! The registration fee is $10 per bike or car. The maximum registration fee is $20/registrant regardless of the number of cars or bikes they bring. A $5 donation is requested per adult admission. Kids 12 and under are free.

To register, print out the registration form on page xxx and bring it along with you on the 21st of June.

The Union Jack

From www.royal.gov.uk, The Official Website of The British Monarchy

The Union Flag, or Union Jack, is the national flag of the United Kingdom.

It is so called because it combines the crosses of the three countries united under one Sovereign - the kingdoms of England and Wales, of Scotland and of Ireland (although since 1921 only Northern Ireland has been part of the United Kingdom).

The flag consists of three heraldic crosses.

The cross of St George, patron saint of England since the 1270's, is a red cross on a white ground. After James I succeeded to the throne, it was combined with the cross of St. Andrew in 1606.

The cross saltire of St Andrew, patron saint of Scotland, is a diagonal white cross on a blue ground.

The cross saltire of St Patrick, patron saint of Ireland, is a diagonal red cross on a white ground.

This was combined with the previous Union Flag of St George and St Andrew, after the Act of Union of Ireland with England (and Wales) and Scotland on 1

January 1801, to create the Union Flag that has been flown ever since.

The Welsh dragon does not appear on the Union Flag. This is because when the first Union Flag was created in 1606, the Principality of Wales by that time was already united with England and was no longer a separate principality.

The Union Flag was originally a Royal flag. When the present design was made official in 1801, it was ordered to be flown on all the King's forts and castles, but not elsewhere.

It is today flown above Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle and Sandringham when The Queen is not in residence.

The Royal Arms of Scotland (Lion Rampant) is flown at the Palace of Holyroodhouse and Balmoral when The Queen is not in residence.

On news of a Royal death, the Union Flag (or the Royal Arms of Scotland (Lion Rampant) where appropriate) is flown at half-mast.

The Royal Standard is never flown at half-mast, as the Sovereign never dies (the new monarch immediately succeeds his or her predecessor).

The flying of the Union Flag on public buildings is decided by the Department for Culture, Media and Sport at The Queen's command.

The Union Flag is flown on Government buildings on days marking the birthdays of members of the Royal Family, Commonwealth Day, Coronation Day, The Queen's official birthday, Remembrance Day and on the days of the State Opening and prorogation of Parliament.

The term 'Union Jack' possibly dates from Queen Anne's time (r. 1702-14), but its origin is uncertain.

It may come from the 'jack-et' of the English or Scottish soldiers, or from the name of James I who originated the first union in 1603.

Another alternative is that the name may be derived from a proclamation by Charles II that the Union Flag should be flown only by ships of the Royal Navy as a jack, a small flag at the bowsprit; the term 'jack' once meant small.

Jaguar Cubs Newest Arrivals At The Living Desert

Barrett Newkirk, The Desert Sun 12:38 a.m. PDT May 21, 2014

PALM DESERT, CA— The Living Desert has again added to its menagerie of cute.

Fresh off the hooves of a baby giraffe born March 28, the zoo on Tuesday announced the birth of two jaguar cubs.

The zoo also has four baby fennec foxes still too young to be exhibited and a zebra that's expected to give birth for the third time any day.

"It's never dull" this time of year at The Living Desert, said Liz Hile, the zoo's curator of animals.

time births in the spring or fall when temperatures are more comfortable for the animals, Hile said.

The cubs double the size of the jaguar family at The Living Desert. Magia, the 4-year-old mother, and Memo, the father, are a matched breeding pair. Memo was moved from a zoo in Panama in 2013 to help the jaguar breeding program in North American zoos.

"This is our first jaguar birth," said Kerry Graves, director of park services at The Living Desert. "Being one of the signature animals at the zoo, it makes it very exciting."

An eBay auction netted $1,025 for the Living Desert from a Los Angeles woman in exchange for the honor of naming the baby male giraffe. Roxana Givner chose Kubwa, Swahili for "big."

Graves said the zoo plans to hold another contest to name the jaguar cubs but details haven't been finalized.

Zookeepers still don't know whether the cubs are male or female. Hile said staff will look for an upcoming opportunity to determine the gender, but so far they are confident that Magia gave birth to two healthy cubs.

"Mom is being a very good mother and being very protective," she said.

Zoo visitors shouldn't expect to see the cubs until about September, after they've had time to be introduced to their exhibit space.

The Association of Zoos & Aquariums has roughly 40 pairs in its jaguar breeding program, said Stacey Johnson, who departed as The Living Desert's president and CEO in January to become the chief life sciences officer at San Diego Zoo Global, which oversees the San Diego Zoo and San Diego Safari Park.

Johnson is also coordinator of the jaguar Species Survival Plan, a role he described as the big cats' "dating coordinator."

The program aims to keep the captive jaguar population healthy through planned breeding. It hoped to have 15-20 litters born over the current two-year cycle, which ends this fall, but so far Johnson said there have been five or six.

Jaguars can have up to six cubs in a litter, Johnson said, but one or two is typical.

"It's always a boost for us when we have cubs born," he said, "because we're trying to manage our population over the very long term."
